A word about the breeders who have joined to make this auction possible . . .

LT. WOODS A. CAPERTON

Following a career which took him to the top of the Percheron horse business, Woods Caperton decided to establish a Scotch Shorthorn herd at beautiful Cricklewood Farm, located $\frac{1}{2}$ mile East of Carmel, Indiana. Top females from the Edellyn, Conner Prairie, Allison Acres, W. J. Russell, Robinwood and other herds were used to provide a strong foundation. Sons of the Perth champion Imp. Calrossie Mercury have been used with success as herd bulls. Those who study this catalog will agree that Shorthorns of exceptional bloodlines are included in the Cricklewood consignment to this sale. The herd is Accredited for BOTH Tuberculosis and Bang's Disease.

ALBERT S. HARE —

Although Albert Hare has been a good Shorthorn cattle breeder for many years, this is the first public offering from his herd which is located $\frac{1}{2}$ mile East of Noblesville, Indiana. This herd was founded on four strong families . . . Roan Lady, Augusta, Kilblean Beauty and Mayflower . . . and the entire 14 head in this consignment have been produced from these families. The great red bull Conner's Captain, a grandson of Imp. Craggleton Essander, has been used with success and his get will be featured. The herd is Accredited for BOTH Tuberculosis and Bang's Disease.

ALLISON ACRES —

This herd is owned by John Allison, Indianapolis businessman, and managed by Oscar Jessup, both widely and favorably known in Shorthorn cattle circles. It is located on 75th Street, ten miles Northeast of Indianapolis.

THOMAS BROS. —

One of the newer herds in Indiana but one of the best. Located directly on Route 37, about ten miles Northeast of Indianapolis, this herd numbers about 30 head and contains only top specimens. The foundation is made up of royally bred females selected from the Allison Acres herd.

G. A. RICHEY & SONS —

Also one of Indiana's newer herds and also located about ten miles Northeast of Indianapolis. The choice small group of foundation females have been selected from the Allison Acres Herd and the quality is very high.

Here are a few of the calves sired by the great young bull Allison's Aristocrat, chief stock bull at Allison Acres.

The barn at beautiful Cricklewood Farm . . . where this sale is to be held.

Featuring Scotch Shorthorns of richest ancestry and outstanding individuality, this auction sale should command the attention of all good breeders. All of the herds from which consignments are being made are located in the district immediately North of Indianapolis and all are owned by men whose reputations for honesty and fair dealing are unquestioned.

Lt. Woods A. Caperton, whose entire time is now devoted to his army duties, will completely disperse his strong herd in this sale and the auction will be held at his beautiful Cricklewood Farm, 1/2 mile East of Carmel, Indiana. Those who are familiar with this herd are aware that it was established on top females selected from the greatest herds in North America. This dispersion will contain cows that were bred by Edellyn Farms, W. J. Russell, Conner Prairie Farms, Anoka Farms and Robinwood Farms. These cows are daughters of such noted sires as Imp. Collynie Royal Barrage, Edellyn Master Mercury, Raveni Masterpiece, Browndale Sensation 2d, Imp. Phingask Bank Roll, Leader's Diamond Mine and others. Six of them will have calves at foot that are sired by Cricklewood Mercury, a son of the Perth champion Imp. Calrossie Mercury and three others will calve immediately following the sale. Many of the females are carrying the service of Allison's Cap-A-Pie, a good son of Klaymor Cap-A-Pie. The Caperton herd is Accredited for BOTH Bang's Disease and Tuberculosis.

Combining a complete dispersion of one herd and strong consignments from four other good herds, this sale will provide extraordinary buying opportunities. The location is ideal for buyers from all Central, Eastern and Southern States and the cattle are the kind that will improve the herds and increase the profits of their new owners.
